STORIES OF THE WAR.

Dr. S. C. Plummer Addresses Army of Tennessee Convention in Chicago.

REMINISCENCES OF A SURGEON.

His First and Last Meeting With Gen. Phil Sheridan. With Whom He Fought at the Battle of Wilson's Creek. When the Latter Was a Lieutenant Colonel, but of Whom He Lost Track Until 1871.

Dr. S. C. Plummer, of Rock Island, took part in the program of yesterday's session of the meeting of the Society of the Army of the Tennessee, at Memorial hall, Chicago, which was attended by President McKinley.

Dr. Plummer's address was a humorous account of the "Reminiscences of an Army Surgeon in the War of the Rebellion." He related an experience he had in connection with his first and last meetings with Gen. Phil Sheridan—the first after the battle of Wilson's Creek, when the great fighter was a lieutenant-colonel, and the last when he was major-general of the United States army, at the time of the Chicago fire, Oct. 9, 1871. Dr. Plummer told of his official relations as army surgeon with "little Phil," and how much impressed he was by his positive, yet pleasant, manner.

Loses Track of Him.

At the close of the war, Dr. Plummer said he lost all track of Sheridan, and when the hero of Winchester arose to the highest rank in the army the doctor little imagined he was the same officer he met at Wilson's Creek. When he was detailed to Chicago for service in connection with the big fire, they met again, but it was not until Gen. Sheridan introduced himself by a humorous reference to incidents at Wilson's Creek that the doctor realized that the distinguished officer who had addressed him and the little lieutenant-colonel he knew in the war were one and the same personage.

Dr. Plummer is the veteran surgeon of the Society of the Army of the Tennessee, and is believed to be the oldest surviving surgeon of any of the organizations growing out of the rebellion.

TRIES TO KILL CHILDREN.

Hans Christensen Falls and Then Commits Suicide.

Hans Christensen, of Savanna, made a vain attempt Monday to drown his six children. He tied the little ones together with a long rope and dragged them to Plum river, a considerable distance from their home. Three of the older children struggled so hard that they broke away and ran back to the city. Finding that he could not kill all of them at one time, Christensen returned with the other three to the house and committed suicide by swallowing carbolic acid, dying in intense agony.

A Life and Death Fight.

W. A. Hines, of Manchester, Iowa, writing of his almost miraculous escape from death, says: "Exposure after measles induced serious lung trouble, which ended in consumption. I had frequent hemorrhages and coughed night and day. All my doctors said I must soon die. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which completely cured me. I would not be without it even if it cost $5 a bottle! Hundreds have used it on my recommendation and all say it never fails to cure throat, chest and lung troubles." Regular size 50 cents and $1. Trial bottles free at Hartz & Ullemeyer's drug store.

The game will be called at 10 o'clock. Saturday afternoon Galesburg and Moline will play at the park.

TO OPEN THE SCHOOL.

Pupils to Have Access to the New Hawthorne Latter Part of Month.

MR. YOUNG ON NON-ATTENDANCE.

Holds Some is Legitimate and Unavoidable, but Says a Great Deal of It is Without Excuse and Should be Brought to the Attention of the Legal Authorities—Other Matters Before the Board of Education.

Hawthorne school, the magnificent new building that has been provided for the children of the west end of the city, will be opened to pupils Monday, Oct. 23, and it was decided by the board of education, at its meeting last night, that the evening of that day be set apart as a time for public inspection of the building.

In his report for the first month of the school term, Superintendent Young states that, despite the fact seven new and inexperienced teachers have been added to the corps of grade teachers and three new teachers in the High school, bringing an entire change in the general management of the schools in the western part of the city, owing to the non-completion of the Hawthorne building, the work of the month has been characterized, first, by a remarkable smooth beginning and an immediate settling down to systematic work; second, by an enrollment that was to some extent a disappointment, it being slightly under that of one year ago; third, by an attendance and punctuality that, while not as high as could be wished, are at least not low enough to cause any feeling of annoyance; and, fourth, throughout all the schools a spirit of devotion to duty and a purpose to attain to higher standards in the real excellence of the work done.

Mr. Young expresses the opinion that if possible, something should be done to bring the non-attendants into the schools. He says further: "The last census of the city, taken in 1898, shows a total of 5,087 persons in the district between the ages of 6 and 21, while the enrollment in the public and private schools of the city was 4,486 for the same time. This includes 560 enrolled in Augustana college, most of whom are undoubtedly nonresidents. If we assume that one-fifth of the college pupils are residents of the district and of school age it will reduce the total enrollment in the city to 4,038. It will be noted that the figures here given refer to total enrollment and not to daily attendance. The figures therefore represent a great many who enter school for a few days or weeks at most and then leave school not to return during the year. Much of this non-attendance is legitimate, some of it is unavoidable, but a great deal of it is entirely without excuse and should be brought to the attention of the authorities for legal action."

Mr. Sweeney Re-elected.

W. L. Sweeney was re-elected trustee officer for the ensuing year. Principal J. F. Darby was authorized to purchase books costing $137 for the High school library. Permission was granted the Union Mission to establish a free kindergarten in the basement of Hawthorne school, and also to the University Extension center to use the High school for its meetings.
